

Composer Notes

Even though this spiritual has traditionally been sung at Christmas, I never thought the original words had much to do with Christmas, except for the phrase “The little, bitty baby born in Bethlehem.” The changes we have made to the text more clearly reflect the wonderful events surrounding the birth of Jesus. Our young people’s choir not only sings this spiritual enthusiastically, but also uses signs and gestures throughout. A demonstration of these signs and gestures will be found in the new Hi God Gesture Book 2 to be published by OCP. We tried to remain true to the original melody of the song, not the melody that has been popularized. The B-flat on “how” of “How shall I send thee?” is the original note. The D-flat (which many use as the melody) is used as a harmony note in verses four and five. We have used this song in our pre-Mass program of carols at our Christmas Eve family liturgy. It can also be used as a Communion meditation.

Liturgical Use: communion meditation/pre-Mass Christmas Eve song

Catechetical Use: It is a joyous song for children to sing in Christmas programs and in prayer services at Christmas
