Antiphon 1: Easter Sunday, Luke 24:34; cf. Revelations 1:6
 Antiphon 2: 2nd Sunday of Easter (Divine Mercy), 4 Edras 2:36-37
 Antiphon 3: 3rd Sunday of Easter, cf. Psalm 66:1-2
 Antiphon 4: 4th Sunday of Easter, cf. Psalm 33:5-6

The musical score consists of three systems. The first system shows the vocal line with lyrics 'al - le - lu - ia,' and the piano accompaniment. The second system shows the vocal line with lyrics 'al - le - lu - ia.' and the piano accompaniment. The third system shows the piano accompaniment. Chords are indicated above the vocal line: (Am) Dm, (Fmaj7) Bbmaj7, (Esus4) Asus4, (E) A, (F) Bb, (Em7) Am7, (Dmadd9) Gmadd9, (E) A, and (A) D. The score includes a 'rit.' marking and a 'S' marking above the vocal line.

Composer Notes

The Easter Season can never have too many “alleluias.” So why not start the liturgy off with joyous “alleluias” from the very beginning!

This simple and solemn arrangement of The Roman Missal Entrance Antiphons for the Sundays in Easter has been crafted with the vision of setting a joyous tone as Mass begins—as the assembly stands, just prior to the entrance procession. This setting can be embellished with handbells and choir or can be simply executed with cantor and organ or piano only. Either way, this festive chanted alleluia (cantor/congregation) and chanted antiphon (cantor) at the beginning of the liturgy, sets a prayerful and jubilant tone for each of the Sundays of the Easter Season. These antiphons are not lengthy, so following the last “alleluia” sung by the assembly, the instrumental introduction to the opening hymn happens, and the liturgical procession begins.

If you happen to have access to handbells, an open 5th drone (D⁵ and A⁵) is a nice way to begin this setting and provides a nice cue for the assembly to rise. (Otherwise, the organ or piano plays the first phrase as an introduction.)

If the church has a very short aisle, or the entrance procession is simple and quick, this entrance antiphon setting could be used as the song for the entrance procession. The presider would begin the liturgical procession as soon as the cantor chants the first “alleluia.”
